40 Days and 40 Nights

Founder Greg Lais commemorates 40 years of adventure.

In honor of Wilderness Inquiry's 40th Anniversary, WI staff member Suzanne Huggett came up with the idea of "banishing" me for "40 days and 40 nights" on trail. I eagerly accepted, and set off on adventures to Glacier National Park, Peru's Machu Picchu, the Apostle Islands, Utah's Capitol Reef, and New Zealand.

Each of these destinations has vistas that will make you feel like you are halfway to heaven. Glacier's High Line Trail, Capitol Reef's Strike Valley Overlook, New Zealand's Milford Sound, and Machu Picchu all stirred my soul. One could sit and gaze all day.

As great as these places are, my favorite thing about traveling is that it shakes up your thinking and alters your perspective when you come home. Experiencing different cultures and different ways of doing things enriches our lives and opens us up to new ways of thinking. As Mark Twain said, “travel is fatal to prejudice and narrow-mindedness.” It increases our empathy, and that is a good thing.

Another reason I love travel is a little more selfish. I always come home from a trip in better shape and more at ease than when I left. Hiking around town is much easier, and I’m more mellow and “present” in the office—which might be the real reason Suzanne suggested I be banished!

Whatever your reasons for travel, you can count on Wilderness Inquiry to provide great value for your travel dollar. Each of our trips is unique, and after 40 years of service we stand behind everything we do.

Hope to see you out there!

Greg Lais
Founder and Executive Director

P.S. I’m shooting for 60 days in the “wilderness” next year!
